

Program Management as a Service

Creating a Flexible PMO for Your Organization

The rapid pace of change in technology, shifting priorities, and the needs of various executive and business stakeholders requires strong program management to realize benefits from enterprise projects. While many organizations have program or project managers (PMs), they continue to face challenges that create inefficiency and fail to drive value.

These challenges include:

- Inconsistent delivery across the portfolio due to reliance on the skills of individual PMs
- Misdirected effort with 60-70% of time spent on standardized tasks
- Lack of budget transparency as actuals-to-forecast analysis is inconsistently performed
- Staffing overhead with project resources sourced from disparate sources
- Unsustainable costs with no economies of scale as project load increases
- Proliferation of manual processes causing overhead and inconsistent execution

Benefits of Program Management as a Service

Protiviti helps clients develop and implement a defined enterprise Program Management Office (PMO) function. Leveraging a proven methodology, a scalable delivery model to flex with your changing needs and experienced program managers, our services provide you with:

A Tailored Solution

A future state model that fits your needs and evolves with the organization

Consistent Delivery

A dedicated function that allows you to achieve business strategies and objectives in a consistent manner that leverages best practices

Scalable Resources

A single point-of-contact to align skilled, cost-effective resources to each need

Measurable Results

A process to establish and track the KPIs that measure the value delivered by the PMO

Program Management as a Service

Every organization is unique and PMO solutions that work for one may not be a perfect fit for another. We help organizations define their overarching PMO strategy, provide a unique combination of services to execute the strategy and evolve the PMO over time.

Adapting and scaling to meet your needs

Protiviti is uniquely positioned with our Managed Technology Solutions (MTS) and global delivery capabilities.
